Dear Colleagues,

Healthy Planet, Healthy People: Leading the Way Through Education, Practice, and Policy.

The voices of nurses, and their experiences in caring for those impacted by the social determinants of health, highlight the importance of education for health care professionals.

Nurse educators like you can help address the ongoing challenges, opportunities, and effects of climate change on health, advocate for a sustainable environment, and advance health equity and nursing education.

It is so important for each of us to demonstrate our own personal leadership so we can support and raise up our students, each other, and ourselves—and anyone who needs our help as we emerge from a global pandemic to an ever-changing and dynamic world.

As you look through this NLN Salute to Members, we know you will see how so many of us—hundreds of leaders, scholars, faculty, students, and allied health care professionals—have chosen to help advance the health of the nation and global community by donating time, talent, and wisdom to the always vital mission of the NLN. The NLN is 129 years old for this inspiring Summit.

Through committees, task forces, boards, and our many programs and initiatives, you personify the NLN's spirit and strength. Our firm resolve continues to be tested in new ways, but we will continue to prevail in expanding and transforming excellence with daring ingenuity in nursing education.

We are so grateful and honored by your dedication and commitment. Thank you for your support of the NLN while achieving your goals in the classroom, communities, clinicals, and labs—wherever your professional pursuits may take you.

As faculty, we are the teachers and leaders focused on the need for nurses and nurse educators recognized by the National Commission for Certifying Agencies (NCCA) as specialists in nursing education to be responsive and proactive in addressing climate change, health equity, and sustainability in managing global health and wellness.

Your NLN membership will continue to be a vital resource growing in importance with the changing times for you as we move forward together. Thank you for your ongoing support of the NLN.
